Business Major To Make Budget Problem Survey

Howard Gold, a business administration senior, will begin a survey next week, for academic credit, among the out-of-town students living in dormitories or homes in the Bridgeport area for the purpose of correlating information on the budgetary problems confronting students at the university.

A questionnaire will be sent to every out-of-town student living in Bridgeport. The questionnaire will be non-identifying and confidential.

The survey questionnaire will be divided into three parts. The first entitled vital statistics includes pertinent questions about yourself and your relationship to the University. Part two is a source of income chart asking six questions about your income. Part three includes your monetary expenditures in the city of Bridgeport. A space for sincere comments is provided at the end of the questionnaire.

Sixteen Countries Are Represented By Students at UB

According to the data released by Vincent Irving, recorder, there are students enrolled from 13 of the 48 states and 16 different countries.

Wallace Chang, of Hawaii, holds the distinction of coming from the most distant point outside the United States. Gloria Fine of Canada hails from the nearest point outside the continental limits.

Our Pan-American neighbors are represented by Jesus Chapparro of Venezuela, Francisco Cubanas of Cuba and Ricardo Gomez of Columbia.

Also attending the University are Irving Barowsky and Reila Heirberg of Poland; Liborio Danriello, Attilio Granata and Eugenio Rosati of Italy; Margaret Gunthin of Hungary; Porter Niesel of Tumania; and Saul Hanila of Yugoslavia.

From within the United States, there are 524 students from thirteen states, the largest number 374, coming from New York (not including Connecticut). The other states represented are Florida, Ohio, California, Maryland, Illinois, Maine, Vermont, New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

World Telegram Reporter Addresses Future Scribes

Allan Keller, feature writer for the N.Y. World Telegram and instructor of journalism at Columbia University, will be guest speaker at the organizational meeting of a new journalism club at 2 p.m., Wednesday, in Fones Hall. Officers of the club will be elected and an official name adopted for the organization which is open to all journalism students.

CHARLES E. WILSON

G. E. President, Charles Wilson, Awarded UB Honorary Degree

by William Orris

Charles E. Wilson, president of General Electric and Bridgeport's own Horatio Alger, was awarded the first honorary Master of Science degree bestowed by the University at a special student convocation held in the Klein auditorium in conjunction with the city's Charles E. Wilson Day, Monday.

UB to Be Site of First Conn. Cheering Clinic

The first high school cheerleading clinic in Connecticut will be held, Dec. 10 at the University. Cheerleaders from 99 high schools and their advisors have been invited to take advantage of this opportunity to discuss problems, exchange ideas and receive constructive criticism on their cheerleading technique.

Tony Iannone, advisor for the Bridgeport cheerleaders, is the organizer of this first clinic which is modeled after the original clinic begun in 1946, by Cornell College of Iowa.

Tickets go on sale today in the Fones Snack Bar for the annual semi-formal Christmas Ball, which will be held at the Ritz Ballroom, Dec. 16. Ray McKinley and his orchestra will supply the dance music. Tickets and tables may be reserved immediately and paid for on or before Dec. 10. Only a limited number of tickets will be sold.

Mr. Wilson, who spent 17 years in Bridgeport in the employ of General Electric and who was one of the civic leaders that assisted President Emeritus Cortright in the founding of the Junior College of Connecticut, received the University's honorary degree of Master of Science.

Mr. Wilson's industrial career, which began at the age of 13 on a $3-a-week job and steadily progressed to the presidency of the General Electric organization, is impressive in itself. The special faculty committee chosen to deliberate the matter of conferring the degree, however, based the tribute to Mr. Wilson upon the many contributions he has made as executive vice chairman of the War Production Board, Chairman of the Production Executive Committee and as chairman of President Truman's Civil Rights Committee.

The convocation, an important event in the history of the University, was a formal affair with members of the faculty and trustees attired in academic regalia.

After the convocation, Mr. Wilson dined at Marina Hall as the guest of the Student Council.

Student Body to Elect Class Representatives, Dec. 12-14

by Len Goldstein

On Dec. 12, 13 and 14, student elections will be conducted to decide who will serve as class officers and freshman Student Council representatives during the current school year.

A president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer for each of the four classes, as well as two freshman class representatives to the Student Council will be voted into office by the more than 2,000 day students enrolled in the University.

Andrew Stahl, chairman of the 1949-50 Election Committee, announced that all nomination blanks and completed candidate information forms must be returned to the Student Activities office, which is serving as election headquarters, before 5 p.m., Friday, Dec. 9. The office is on the third floor of Howland Hall.

Dec. 5 through 9, has been designated as Campaign Week, and will be followed by Election Week, Dec. 12 to 14. Balloting will take place at the Fones Snack Bar, Dec. 12, Fairfield Snack Bar, Dec. 13, and voting booths will be open at Fairfield during the morning and at Fones in the afternoon on Dec. 14.

Voting regulations as set up by the Election Committee prohibit students on probation from being candidates for office. Further regulations require that the nominee's name be placed at the top of the nomination blank and be circulated among members of his own class until the necessary 25 signatures are obtained.

In nominating class officers, no student is allowed to endorse more than one petition for each office. Violation (Continued on Page 6)

Council Rules Cut In Activity Budgets After Heavy Debate

by Henry Mozdzer

The Student Council held its longest session of the year Tuesday, Nov. 15, and arrived at the not too startling conclusion that various student activity budgets would have to be drastically cut before appropriations could be made.

Starting off the three and one-quarter hour marathon, the Social Activities Committee, represented by chairman Sid Sobel and Miss Betty Gene Hickey, brought forth a budgetary request for more than half of the council's bank roll. An hour long discussion ensued during which time council members probed the whys and wherefores of expected expenditures, seeking details which would justify such a generous allotment.

Cox Makes Statement

In general, it may be said that this year's SAC is vitally concerned with the problem of boosting the attendance of local resident students at University functions. It feels that it can do this by producing bigger and better affairs, e.g. having name bands at college dances.

John Cox, president of the council, pointed out, however, that there are now "some 41 other organizations on campus eligible and entitled to Student Council financial aid." Allocation was therefore withheld, pending further consideration.

Brushing aside other business, the council used the remainder of the meeting to discuss with Dr. Henry W. Littlefield, vice-president of the University, the possibility of having Student Council funds increased.

Financial Problems Discussed

In speaking about financial problems of the University, Dr. Littlefield said, "Our rapid expansion from three buildings twenty years ago to 28 buildings today means added expense for teachers, equipment, and maintenance. Further, we offer many new services to the students. Yet, we

Night School Conducts Human Relations Lab

A laboratory on human relations is being conducted in the Evening Session this semester for the first time in the University's history. The laboratory is designed to explore the reasons for our success or failure in our relations with people, and to seek ways of improving these relations.

David Brown, assistant professor of psychology, is director of the course which has enrolled 15 people, mainly teachers from the Bridgeport public schools. Meeting every Wednesday night, the group uses the discussion or seminar method of instruction, and utilizes such materials as films and reading matter merely to provide stimulation for discussion.

Program of General Studies Submitted by Faculty Committee

The faculty committee on a General Studies Program has submitted a program to the arts and science faculty for consideration in the hope that it (or something similar) can be included in the University's catalogue soon.

The recommendations include three new courses. For the first year, 100 great experiments, 6 credits, would be an inter-departmental survey course in which great experiments in all fields of physical and biological sciences are treated in their historical chronology. It is designed to emphasize the contribution of the scientific method to modern civilization.

The proposed subjects for the second year for a general studies major are world literature and foreign language. The elective language would be only for students whose language requirements had been completed at the end of the first year. It may be either advanced work in the same language or a second one.

The proposed program would permit about 24 or 26 credits of electives. It would also make possible work for a teacher's certificate with the prescribed curriculum.

A part of this movement for general studies majors or horizontal specialization is an answer to the criticism that college education is simply the production of specialists.

Members of the committee that wrote the plan are Charles B. Goulding, Joseph Schafer, chairman; Abraham E. Knepler and Harold E. Smith.

Freshman Student Council Elections

Each school year in the month of December the freshman class, who has gotten to know some of its fellow members, hold elections to name its representatives to the Student Council.

The members of the freshman class must keep in mind that these elections are the most important decisions the class will have made since it began at UB. These elected freshman class representatives will begin to take part in our student government and important decisions will rest in their hands. Think before you sign a nomination blank. Only support the candidate whom you think will do the best possible job.

UB has yet to reach its peak of expansion and as succeeding classes of freshmen enter the school, they may lose sight of the work that has been done before. Don't take your student government for granted. Find out about its background and its possibilities for the future and then cast your vote.—L.B.

Class Elections

Class elections are in the air and once again violent campaigns will take place and after a hard fight, a slate of officers will be elected. The treasurer will then have the job of selling class jewelry, the president will arrange one social affair each school year and the officers will set up a booth at the annual circus dance. Except for these three jobs, the class officers are seemingly powerless. But that is not the case. Any group of leaders which are elected by a large group have the power of that group.

Therefore, the elected class officers are as strong as the group of students they represent. There are many students in the University who are not represented on the student government since they do not belong to any club or organization and therefore, have no representative on the Student Council Advisory Committee or on the Student Council.

The class officers, when elected, are given a seat on the Student Council Advisory Committee and in this manner, represent the students in their class that would otherwise not have a say in the student government. These officers are elected to represent you. They should call meetings of the class every month to find out the opinions of the students on pertinent subjects brought before the Student Council Advisory Committee.

You, the individual student, through your class officers, can voice your opinion on UB affairs. See that you question prospective class officers on this subject. They must be made to represent their class effectively and see to it that they put forth the views of their class and not their own personal opinions.

There are other numerous services that class officers can perform for their class. Class officers have tended to shirk their duties in the past. Let's elect competent people that will take their jobs seriously and do a good job for their class.—L.B.

Support the Wistarian

The 1950 edition of the "Big Top," this year's Wistarian, has been in the planning stage for some time now. The staff has made, changed, and eliminated tentative ideas and now the concrete ideas are progressing through the formative stages. Anything that the staff might do, however, will be completely lost if you do not cooperate with them. Before the staff can proceed any further with the project, there must be student support.

This is your yearbook. It is life at UB as you saw it, lived it and made it. This story in words and pictures will be a permanent record of the moments that you would otherwise be unable to capture in any other way.

The staff can assure you of a yearbook high in quality and content only if you rally to order your copy at the Stables or snack bar in the main building on the Fairfield Campus this week.

Copies can be obtained only by ordering now as the staff can not print more than the actual number of books ordered.

The time for action is now. Get behind your yearbook and order your copy today.

Let's all work to put the "Big Top" over the top and make it the finest yearbook in UB history.—M. McC.

Happenings Across The Nation

by Benjamin Raubvogel

A proposal to end racial discrimination in college fraternities was ruled off the program of the National Interfraternity Conference last week as being "solely the business of each fraternity."

Frank H. Myers, chairman, announced the decision. It was made by the executive committee of the organization of 57 national Greek-letter societies, holding its annual conference in Washington, D.C.

Myers, a federal district judge in Washington, scolded the delegates for the failure of fraternities "in many instances" to improve poor scholarship, end "hell week" initiation abuses, and control drinking in chapter houses.

National Restrictions

"Unless fraternity leaders are willing to act promptly and with courage to correct these weaknesses," he said in his annual report, "we will be constantly on the defensive, continually weakened as far as prestige and standing are concerned, and not inconceivably destroyed in the end."

The question of racial and religious bias in fraternities arose at last year's conference when a proposed resolution was offered. It voiced belief that membership should be based not on "national restrictions" and that a candidate should be judged on character and personality "rather than his race, color, religion or nationality." Action was deferred until this year.

Myers reported that all member fraternities were asked to consider the statement in the meantime but that only 17 of 57 replied. Twelve of these reported the issue was tabled or not a proper matter for conference action.

New England Protests

The executive committee therefore "correctly" ruled, Myers said, that no further action is necessary.

In a protest movement, the interfraternity councils of 14 New England schools adopted a resolution on Oct. 15 stating their belief that "discriminatory clauses should be repealed."

Two Stratocruiser speed records made last weekend were announced yesterday by Northwest Airlines. On a flight from Honolulu to Seattle, Capt. R. O. Bain flew the run in 8 hours and 36 minutes. This was 1 hour and 9 minutes under the scheduled flying time. The other speed mark was on the company's run between Seattle and New York. The aircraft completed the trip in 7 hours and 8 minutes, which was 1 hour and 47 minutes under the regular scheduled flying time.

College Enrollment at Peak

This fall's college enrollments totaled almost 2½ million; despite a drop in the number of veteran students, it was the highest in U. S. history.

Last week New York University's School of Education reported that 26 graduate students were taking the nation's first collegiate course in writing comic books. Reason for the course: since most U. S. school children (and most adults) read comics, N.Y.U. had begun to think that U. S. educators better learn how to produce constructive ones.

New York University was not alone. A special curriculum committee set up by New York City's Board of Education had also been wondering about comic books. In its last report, the committee cautiously recommended that New York teachers begin to look into them as a possible "educational device for the slow learners."

Free School for Labor

The International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union (AFL) established a "labor college." ILGWU President David Dubinsky said it would give a free one-year course in labor relations to qualified high school graduates interested in the labor movement. Next year the school will open in N.Y. with a class of 40, will guarantee jobs in the union to graduates.

The Feinberg Law, which directed the Board of Regents of New York to purge the public school system of Communist or fellow-traveling teachers and other employees was held unconstitutional Tuesday by Supreme Court Justice Harry E. Schirick in a test case.

In a 5,000-word opinion, Justice Schirick ruled that the law constituted a bill of attainder in violation of the state and Federal Constitutions and that it contravened the "due process" clauses of the state and Federal Constitutions in at least four particulars.

Attorney General Nathaniel L. Goldstein announced immediately that the state would take an appeal. Because a constitutional question is involved, the appeal can go directly to the Court of Appeals, highest tribunal in the state, by passing the intermediate appellate division.

In its main conclusion, Justice Schirick's decision Tuesday, paralleled a ruling handed down in August by Judge Joseph Sherbow in Baltimore in a test involving a similar Maryland statute.

Thanksgiving Football Game

In the past two years, UB has proven its ability in sports by turning out a superior football team. This team has been a great benefit to the University.

UB as been building up football and I think that they have overlooked some very important sources of rivalry, team spirit and possibly monetary dividends.

An annual Thanksgiving football game between UB and an outstanding rival such as Arnold could go a long way to develop college football in Bridgeport. Instead of the high school teams drawing the crowds on Thanksgiving, a good match between UB and Arnold would be a better game. This game might be combined with a Dad's day in order to get some of the out-of-town students to come to the game with their families.

The sooner UB begins to develop itself in the field of athletics, the sooner the name of the University will begin to spread throughout the East as a sports power.

VETERANS AFFAIRS

by Al Sherman

Vets to be Interviewed

Mr. J. Moran, P. L. 16 Veterans training officer will be at the University Dec. 1, from 9:30 to 12:00 at the veterans office, Howland Hall to interview P.L. No. 16 veterans.

Attention former New York State veterans: If you have been turned down for the New York State bonus here to residence requirements, you may now file for the bonus provided you were a resident of that state for six months prior to your entry into service.

Course Changes

The University is no longer authorized to approve changes in objective for P.L. 346 veteran students. Veterans will have to file on form 1905e and attach any additional information supporting the reasons for this change. It is strongly recommended that you go through testing procedure with Mr. D. Kern, vocational advisor, and submit his recommendations with your request. Form 1905e may be secured from the veterans office—also, this request must be filed with this office.

Entitlement Time Information

Veterans desiring information concerning the length of time they will be permitted to study under the G.I. bill should consult this office. We cannot give you an official statement, but can approximate the time within two weeks.

Foneyville Follies

by Bob Donaldson

Well students, Al has gone and done it again.—Mr. Dickason has added another smash hit to his ever growing list and we must admit that "Campus Thunder" No. 3 was, in a few well chosen words, the "nuts".—In fact, it was Stew, Gerry, the cast, and the technical staff along with the legendary Al can most certainly be proud of the result of their long labors.

Highlights of the show:

The most inspiring solo done by Stew Baker on the "ukulele" in the "Nellie" scene—that was music, wasn't it Stew.

One of the glamorous "Thunderettes", Bill Desmond, and his interpretation of "Bette Davis".—Bill brought down the house with his clearly enunciated "Pee-tah".

Frank Castellucci as "Fifi" did a most sex-sational job with the strip-tease number and from the action portrayed in those "grinds" and "bumps"

I would venture to say that Frank has done a little undergraduate work at the "Old Howard".

Gerry Baker did a wonderful job throughout the whole show but her rendition of "Dear Cigarette" was exceptionally well done.

I don't know who poured Nancy Fray and Betty Pearl into those dresses they wore for the "Frankie and Johnny" number but I would have loved to have been the bartender.—They might not have kept the girls warm but they certainly raised the temperatures of the male part of the audience.

Ed Morrison, Maxine Levine and John Reed deserved and received much applause for their "I Love to See the Girls in Galoshes" routine.—Maxine put everything she had into the number and "that ain't hay".

And that acrobatic dancer, namely Chester Bettini; All I can say is "Wow".—He must have been weaned on Mexican jumping beans.

Harold Marshall's tap dance routine was slightly terrific.—That boy has talent with a capital "T" and his dancing ability is exceeded only by his dancing ability.

"Sand" Mehorter was excellent in both the Honky Tonk and Vaudeville scenes.—Sand was with the Broadway show "As the Girls Go" a short time ago as a dancer and his performance proved his versatility.

I enjoyed Phyllis Cross' beautiful rendition of the "Birth of the Blues" in the Honky Tonk scene.—In fact, the whole scene including the Congo dancers, the witch-doctor, the weird lighting effects and the throb of the voodoo drums were tremendously impressive.

Jim Quigley, Dick Limbacher and Dutch Hardy were also outstanding throughout the have not boosted tuition fees in recent years when other colleges and universities were doing just that. "Actually," he added, "students at UB are receiving $1.50 of educational service for every dollar they spend when present day tuition fees are compared with those of the old Junior College."

James Gaffney, vice-president of the council, questioned Dr. Littlefield about the possibility of increasing the ten dollars per student now allotted for student activities.

Dr. Littlefield replied, "In Junior College days, each student paid a $7.50 activity fee per semester. A large portion of this money was used for athletic programs as well as social activities. Approximately $5.00 each term was spent by the Student Committee on Extra-Curricular Activities. Student Council supervision of these funds was then based on $10.00 per student year. Some activities formerly supported from this money are now carried in the regular University budget which now is carrying a heavier financial load in promoting student activities."

"Last year," Dr. Littlefield continued, "despite the student body promise to support football financially, the University was obliged to make good a loss of several thousand dollars. Without a question, as our athletic program begins to roll along, it will pay for itself. In the meantime, we have to fight this growing octopus of overhead."

In view of the pressing needs of other departments and a fair appraisal of all University needs, an increase in the Student Council allocations could not be justified, he said. The meeting adjourned at 6:30.

show.—Dick was especially good in the "Probation" song.—Maybe it's because he really "felt" the words.

Mustn't forget to mention King Sinanian's take-off on "Mae West".—King put a lot into the part and also into his girdle.

Merilu Elliot generated many chuckles in her part in the saga of "Nellie" as Beatrice.—When she welcomed "Nellie" home the tone she used was a masterpiece of understatement and the off-stage rivalry between the two was a constant source of amusement.

The "Vassar Directress," Maria Colina, played her part to perfection and the song "Walter" was very well done by Miss Colina.

It is impossible to mention all the many fine performances given by the various members of the cast in such a small space but suffice to say, they were all good.

I've about run out of superlatives and as the curtain slowly descends on Mr. Dickason's latest success I would like to extend sincere

ROVING REPORTER

By Sid Sobel

The Roving Reporter welcomes questions from his readers which can be used as the question of the week. Kindly send all correspondence to the Roving Reporter, care of the SCRIBE.

Question: What in your opinion can be done to better living conditions in the dormitories?

Jean Coury, business administration junior, Wistaria Hall: Better food would be a step forward in helping to better living conditions at the dormitories. If we could pay for meals individually, we could at least eat out when we wished to without forfeiting the money already paid for meals. Late hour permissions on week-ends should be more lenient, with hours being scaled according to classes.

Walter Newcomb, liberal arts senior, Marina Hall: Our rooms are overcrowded. There should be no more than two fellows to a room for maximum quiet while studying. Poor lighting facilities throughout the dormitory make it imperative that you supply your own desk lamps or go blind. We are still paying 25 cents to use the Bendix machine which was supposed to have been paid off over a year ago.

Marie Kurth, Wistaria Hall sophomore, liberal arts: We have to wait in line too long for our food. By the time we get to a table, the food is usually cold and no one likes to eat cold food. We girls at Wistaria are really in dire need of showers. A television set in the lounge would help to better living conditions here as we could entertain our boy friends, who are usually financially embarrassed.

Ed DeWitt, Marina Hall senior, business administration: I think the management of the dining room should be turned over to a private concessionaire. Under those conditions, I think the food might be a little better. The idea of the fellows dressing for dinner is really ridiculous. A tie and a jacket are necessary articles of clothing on a date, but for dinner at Marina, I think they're out of place, especially when the girls eat in sweaters and skirts.

Sandy Vilensky, Seaside Hall freshman, business administration: I don't think that late permissions for the girls are fair. There should be more than three one o'clock permissions a semester. We here at Seaside Hall need a room, set aside especially on Sundays, where we can do our studying. Girls' sports should be organized to a greater degree. Girls like to participate in sports as well as fellows.

Renee Court, Linden Hall freshman, liberal arts: The dining room facilities aren't adequate for the large number of students who eat their meals there. UB doesn't have enough inter-dormitory parties. There should be one at least every other week. A larger snack bar which is open seven days a week might help to solve this problem.

Purple Knights Defeat Alumni Five, 73-48

Sports Review

by Mike McCluskey

In the past few weeks a controversy has arisen which seems highly pertinent to the future of our great gridiron sport. The question of continuing or abolishing the two platoon system has been debated at sports writers' and coaches' meetings for some time.

Wesleyan's Norm Daniels initiated the movement at a recent meeting of the Connecticut Sports Writers' Alliance. Coach Harvey Harman of Rutgers fired the second shot of the campaign at a similar meeting in New York, claiming that the system is destroying football.

Leading eastern college coaches that have opposed the two platoon movement are: "Rip" Engle of Brown, Maryland's Jim Tatum, "Moon" Mondschein of C.C.N.Y., Fordham's Ed Danowski, George Sauer of Navy, and "Hooks" Mylin, who directs the N.Y.U. squad.

One of the coaches speaking in favor of the two platoon arrangement was George (Lefty) James of Cornell. He promised to strive for the continuance of the system and the 1948 unlimited substitution rule, and argued that many fellows who get a chance to perform on offensive and defensive teams would not get the opportunity to play if it weren't for the controversial system.

UB's Walter (Kay) Kondratovich believes that the system can be used effectively by small schools. In discussing the merits of the dual system, he claims that a rest for one squad makes them re-enter the game with added vigor and freshness and possibly even lessens injuries. Coach Kondratovich agrees with James on the fact that more players are given a chance to participate in the contests.

Looking at our season's record we may readily believe that our use of the system has been quite successful. However one wonders what would result if we opposed a team which has fostered the dual view exclusively, and has the proper staff and performers to back this businesslike type of play. Would we then be rather hesitant in accepting the system?

Many fans have voiced objections to the arrangement, claiming that it takes much enjoyment out of watching the great sport. The average fan today is at a complete loss when he attempts to follow the lineup of his team in action. A couple of years ago, it was an easy matter to know who was performing on the squads but today with men running on and off the field with the change of the ball, the fan devotes almost all his attention to changing his lineups and keeping track of who is playing. In no other sport will you find so many performers.

Let's do away with the two platoon system which is proving a detriment to our grid sport. Let's go back to the days of individual stars and shift away from the specialization which has ruined the all around ball players. If such a problem is being debated by many of the great coaches of the East it is apparent that it requires a solution quickly by grid leaders.

If we must give a larger number of fellows the chance to participate in the sport, why not set up freshmen and junior varsity elevens to provide such training for them? In the final analysis we would still produce a strong varsity group, which would be able to meet competition effectively, be able to play regularly, and still possess an added zest for the game.

We invite the SCRIBE readers to voice their opinions on this controversial matter. Write them down and leave them in the SCRIBE mailboxes. We are anxious to secure your views on the two platoon system, so send them in today.

Newcomers Shine In One-Sided Tilt For Initial Victory

The UB basketball team won its first game of the season against a star-studded Alumni five, 73-48 last Friday night in K. of C. Hall. Gus Seaman, ex-Bassick high school court brilliant, led the UB attack as he sank 12 field goals and two fouls for a total of 26 points. Jimmy Roche, ex-Central star, tallied 14 points for the Purple and White and Stratford's Dick Labash grabbed ten more in the five minutes of action he saw.

Johnny Barron who led the UB team to many victories in the past two years was the high scoring ace for the Alumni cagers with 11 points. Fred "Cy" Daly and Barron are now members of the Danbury Hatters professional team.

Coach Herb Glines started five newcomers in the tilt and the freshmen took a half-time advantage of 34-20. After the close first half, the Glinesmen quickly pulled away to a 58-28 mark within four minutes of the second stanza. From here, the Knights were in command except for a brief rally by the Alumni which brought them within 11 points of the Purple and White.

It was the third straight win for the Purple Knights in as many season debuts against their older brothers. In 1947, the varsity won 78-35, and in 1948, they came out on top 75-46.

In the preliminary contest, the UB junior varsity trounced the University school, 39-26, with football stars Frank Giannini and Ray Hirth scoring.

Bridgeport Whips Fairfield Harriers for Initial Victory

By taking four of the first five places in the final meet of the year, the UB cross-country team won its first meet of the season against the strong Fairfield University harriers at the Jesuit's field, by a 18 to 37 score.

Jack Gaston and Allan Miller were the individual stars for the Purple and White as they clocked in at 21:13 and 21:20 to grab first and second places over the three and one-half mile course.

Joe Miko of Fairfield edged Bridgeport's Alvin Eller for third place by six seconds, running the course in 21:25.

George Voynick took fifth place and Fred Gorton who led the Bridgeport squad against Hofstra last week was in the lineup with a pulled leg muscle, and took sixth place to complete the Bridgeport scoring.

This was the final meet of the 1949 season for the Bridgeport Harriers, as they were beaten by Upsala and Hofstra in earlier meets. Coach Ed Tamashunas calls this a fine record for the first season of competition, when you consider that the squad was composed of men who have never had previous cross-country running experience.

Swimming Squad Prepares For Opener with Manhattan

The UB swimming team will begin another season, Dec. 3, when they play host to Manhattan College at the local YMCA pool. The Purple and White mermen had a successful season last year and are looking forward to an even more prosperous one this year.

Coach Ed Tamashunas announced that his charges will be out to break all meet records set by last year's swimming squad. If they are successful, he said, we can rest assured that the team shall be riding the crest of the victory wave again.

Because of the over abundance of men on the team, a junior varsity team will be formed. This team shall be composed of the overflow of men not actually participating in varsity competition. Thus far, a schedule for the jayvees has not been prepared, but plans are now being made.

In addition to many new men on this year's team, it will be strengthened by the return of nine veterans from last season, putting the UB mermen in an advantageous position for a winning season.

Members of the swimming team are: diving, Mal Cohen, Clem DeRocco, and Arthur Hardie; breaststroke, Tom Noyes, Andy Staal, Fred Dilendeck, Ronnie Mick, "Andy" Anderson, Harold Kempler, and Fred Peterson; freestyle, Augie Woerner, Don Julian, Tony Lombard, Augie Webb, Frank Anastas, Douglas Sherwood, Arthur Walsh, Ralph Hardy, and Dick Whelan; backstroke, John Leven, Clarence Swanson, and William Minicilio.

Records made by the UB swimming team last year are listed with the event, man, and time as follows:

Medley Relay—Buttleman, Pappas and Webb. Time: 3:21.3.
440 Freestyle—Buttleman. Time: 6:13.
220 Freestyle—Pappas. Time: 2:21.2.

With the lack of offensive strength as the main drawback to a winning campaign this year, Coach Iannone is looking forward to next September when he hopes to improve on this year's mark of five defeats and one tie in six outings.

Basketball Crowds Football from Top Intramural Position

Intramural touch football will wind up a successful season the first week of December with winners of the first and second rounds tangling to decide the championship. The dormitory and fraternity athletes then will swap cleats and helmets for sneaks and knee guards and continue their rivalries on the hardwood in the fast intramural basketball leagues.

Intramural director Tony Iannone has announced a tentative program for the court season, and he expects a large turnout of basketball enthusiasts. Three teams already have submitted rosters and this figure is expected to swell to about twenty-five.

Two Leagues Planned

The fraternity teams will form one league and dormitory and independent clubs will form another. Last year, more than 200 men participated and all indications point to an even larger turnout this season.

The league will carry on operations in the Knights of Columbus hall, with games being played in the afternoon and early evening. Several of the better contests or "naturals" will be scheduled as preliminary games to the junior college varsity battles. These "naturals" would be between bitter rivals and games played by the faculty. Because of the large number of teams expected to participate, greater facilities will be needed.

Football Team to Officiate

According to Iannone, arrangements are being made to secure the First Methodist Church gym two afternoons every week. Officiating at these games, will be members of the varsity football team.

The program will get under way immediately after the intramural football season is over. This early start will allow each team to play at least one game before the Christmas holiday.

Ludlowe High School of Fairfield, played center-half on this year's ill-fated squad, and according to his coach "was an outstanding player and should make a good leader for next season."

The 1950 team will have 13 returning members from the '49 crew, losing only Captain Charlie Feld, Jabil Karam, Dick Lord, and Bob Janson.

Paragraphing the News

By Joan Reck

Those students who will graduate in February or June, and any of the alumni of the 1949 graduating classes may apply for the following positions at the placement office, third floor, Howland Hall.

1. Two years of office training with a large paper manufacturer at $225 a month. Student must be an accounting major.

2. Training with a manufacturer of business equipment—two sales positions and a managerial position. Students must be accounting majors.

Any students who are leaving UB, graduating or transferring, this semester, should report to the student personnel office before Jan. 3, in order to get back their $25.

Miss Gladys L. Persons, director of the reading laboratory at the University, spoke on "The Reading Laboratory: A Newcomer in Education" at a recent meeting of the Trumbull Exchange club.

Miss Persons is a former co-editor of the New York University reading clinic and editor of the Reader's Digest reading service. She came to the University when the reading clinic was set up in 1948.

All students who have not as yet gotten a copy of the student handbook may pick one up at the office of student activities, third floor, Howland Hall. Each student enrolled at the University is entitled to receive one copy of "Your Key to UB."

Orders for senior class rings, jewelry and junior college rings will be taken at the book store Dec. 1 to 14, disclosed the office of student activities. A deposit of $10 must be made with the orders, which will be filled on March 7, 1950. For further information consult the office of student activities or phone Ed Kost at 6-2704.

The music department will present its annual Christmas program on Dec. 13, at the Klien Memorial. The chorus and brass choir, will participate and the audience will join in with Christmas Carols. The dramatic portion will take the form of a pageant.

The Newman Club has appointed Albion Doe its faculty advisor. Mr. Doe is a former faculty advisor to the University of Texas Newman Club. Other appointments include Tom McGannon, chairman of the Social Activities committee; William Coleman, chairman of the Intellectual committee; and Edward Belinski, chairman of the Spiritual committee.

On Dec. 11, the club is planning a Communion Breakfast. Tickets may be purchased from any member. Officers of the Newman Club are Norman Cormier, president; Leonard Lampugnale, treasurer; Theresa Brannelly, recording secretary; and Norma Kelly, corresponding secretary.

Miss Gladys L. Persons, director, and Mrs. Mary Grumbly, instructor of the reading laboratory of the University, are co-authors of an article in the Journal of Educational Psychology entitled "Group Guidance in the Program of the Reading Laboratory."

Miss Doris Borup, executive secretary of the University's Alumni Association, entertained a group of seniors and alumni at her home in Stratford on Nov. 20. This was the first series of monthly receptions given by the association to acquaint future alumni with those who have already graduated. Dr. Paul Liscio, '30, is chairman. The committee on undergraduate cooperation assisting him includes Walter Maguire '43, Herbert Bundock '37, Betty Madden Jensen '41, and Christine Dionis '44.
